

It is probably safe to assume that all these images were taken on the same visit to Lowestoft as they all come from the same storage box. We know the date as the Lowestoft Box Factory fire was in 1907. The emulsion on this particular glass negative is deteriorating though it adds to the fire effect! It is always impressive to see how Ada could get groups of individuals - usually men - to stand and pose for her photograph.

